PREFACE

Are you related to the Korns living here and there? It is in answer to this inquiry that the Author of this volume has undertaken to determine and trace the Korns lineage and to make a record of his findings.

This undertaking has been carried on with great difficulty because of the unreliability of tradition, the incompleteness and inadequacy of the records kept, and the lack of interest on the part of many of the descendants who were solicited for information on their own line.

On October 14, 1727, the Provincial Council of Pennsylvania adopted a resolution requiring all masters of vessels importing Germans and other foreigners to prepare a list of such person, their occupation and the place from whence they came; further, these immigrants should sign a declaration of allegiance and subjection to the King of Great Britain and of fidelity to the Proprietary of Pennsylvania. Most of the immigrants coming to Pennsylvania had taken their oath of allegiance at the port of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Many of the names of immigrants will be found in the following volumes: "Thirty Thousand Names of Immigrants" by Prof. I. Daniel Rupp; "Pennsylvania Archives, Volume XVII of Second Series;" "Pennsylvania German Pioneers," by Ralph Beaver Strassburger and Dr. William John Hinkley—This authority has an index and a volume of facsimile signatures of the original lists.

The above named Volumes have been thoroughly searched for all names spelled Korn, Corn and Korns, as well as the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland Archives.

The Department of Interior, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Division of old warrants and land grants, as well as deeds granted to the early Pennsylvania German pioneers, has been investigated.

In many Counties of Pennsylvania, the names of the Korns sive search of Orphan Court records, Probation of Wills, distribution of estates, petition and transfer of property.

In the subdivision of Counties in Pennsylvania there was a record made of the dates of assessments and payment of taxes to determine the duration of residence in that locality.

Church records were examined, and notation made of membership, baptisms, confirmations, marriages, and deaths.

Cemeteries have been visited, inscriptions and obituaries from tombstones copied, and some of the inscriptions translated from German to English.

There has been an extensive search for records in both the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa., and the Historical Society of Berks County, Reading, Pa., as well as records obtained from other Historical Societies in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The enumeration of the First Census in 1790 does not name one person by the name of Korn or Korns, although there is a Michael Corn in Derry Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., and Henry Corns in Northumberland County, Pa., both enumerated in the 1790 census.

Tradition has played an important part in the search for record, in some cases has proved to be an asset, while others it has proved to be a great liability, as it required long, persistent search throughout the State to prove that the tradition could not be verified.

INTRODUCTION

The Korn's History has not been written prior to 1949. There were several who made efforts to compile records but the efforts amounted to naught. The Korn's name was previously or originally spelled "Korn." The 's' being added about 1795 and first appeared on warrents, land grants and deeds in Londonderry Township, Bedford County, Pennsylvania. The reason for adding the 's' is not definitely known. Probably through useage of adding the apostrophe 's' in the possessive, the apostrophe was dropped and the 's' retained. The Korn Genealogy goes back about 200 years in the United States. Due to the various ways of spelling and pronounciation of Korn, as, Corn, Kern and Korn's, made the search all the more difficult. In Pennsylvania German it is difficult to distinguish the pronounciation between "Korn" and "Kern."

In 1932 the author decided there should be some record or history of the Korn's descendants for posterity, so with a resolute purpose and a firm determination to write a history of the Korn's descendants, he dedicated himself to the completion of his self-appointed task. The following years were spent in excursions into authentic sources in search of the unknown.

The Korn or Korn's family were Germans, spoke German and all legal transactions were executed in high German script. They were of Protestant faith and many were members of the Reformed and Lutheran Church.

There are presented in this volume some of the old original farm homes as they appear in 1949. The buildings are from 100 to 150 years old and some are in a dilapidated condition. They were included in the history for the purposes of location by descendants as the name of State, County and Townships are given. There are drafts of some of the original farms as Michael Korn's, Sr., which gives names of adjoining farms of neighbors, such as Gaumers, Cooks, Witt, Beds, Hoeman, Uhl, and Lency. Many of the Korn's children married into neighboring families. There are churches where many of the Michael Korns, Sr., family attended and were members. Many of the church records are there and cemeteries where many of the descendants are buried.

The name of Korn is a very common name throughout Europe, especially Southern Germany and Northern Switzerland. The author has been informed by Dr. W. A. Korn, a descendant and a former minister and teacher in the Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa., who spent some time in Germany, that while he was at Bad Nuheim above Frankford on the Main, he met a Carl Korn whose native place was Millheim also in that section. He informed him that a mill in that place was in the Korn name for many generations.

The names of the following German pioneers are among the ship lists and are enumerated in the Pennsylvania Archives as follows:

Carl Korn, came from Wertemberg, Germany, on ship "Edinburg," James Russel, Commander, arriving in Port of Philadelphia, September 19, 1752. Reference Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 17, page 352.

Henrich Korn, came from Rotterdam on ship "Phoenix," John Spurrier, Commander, arriving in port of Philadelphia, Pa., November 2, 1752. At which time he took the oath of allegiance to support, obey and defend the Laws of England. the original spelling was Korn. Reference Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 17, page 372. He was reported sick aboard ship.

Valentine Korn, came from Rotterdam on ship "Beulah," Captain Richie in Command, arriving in port of Philadelphia, September 10, 1753. Reference Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 17, page 380.

Christoph Korn, came from Rotterdam on ship "Neptune," John Mason, Master last from Cowes, England, September 24, 1754. Reference Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 17, page 395.

J. Frederick Korn, came from Amsterdam on ship "Erick," ship," Charles Ross, Captain, arriving in port of Philadelphia, October 21, 1754. Reference Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 17, page 442.

This Volume is confined principally to the Michael Korns, Sr., Family of Somerset County, Pennsylvania, with a brief History of his Parents, Brothers and Sisters. Some of his children married and migrated to the West where they obtained land grants and became progressive farmers and were instrumental in the early building and development of the West. Others remained in Somerset County, Pennsylvania, where they were also progressive farmers as well as engaged in many other useful vocations and professions.
